My dear Fisher

I am very sorry to hear that you are so unwell, what can be the reason, does not Southampton agree with you? I am very sorry to say that I have so much to do that I can not come on Monday indeed I fear I shall not be able to come at all. This vexes me very much because there are few things I should like better than to come and see you. I hope however that ~~you~~ Mr Fisher will write me again some other time. What a plague business is. I called on Bingham yesterday. he had just gone out. The servant told me he had not yet got rid of his cold. I met a lady who knew something about Brewster a few days ago. Is there any chance of your coming to London soon? I heard Mr Pike very highly spoken of a few days ago.

I have had a capital book on Electro-Magnetics sent me. I dare say I shall be able to bring it to Cambridge and as I expect to have a very good galvanic battery you will be able to do some work.

I hope the books I sent you did not fit you, for what chance should I have against you if they did? I have just been looking at a beautiful picture Mr Leslie is painting of the Coronation.
The queen is receiving the sacrament.

I hope Mr Fisher and Emma are quite well will remember me to them. Maria sends her love to them. Believe me to remain yours sincerely
C. C. Stoddard
